If the single non-leaking regulating damper, the heat saving cup-joint flues, and the asbestos oven back and bottom, which prevent the escape of a single particle of heat that comes from the firepot, will save half a ton of coal in a year—and they will, in less than ten years they will save more than the cost of the stove itself.

Crawford Ranges

Are the crowning result of many years of study and practical experimenting, with the one object in view of saving labor and saving cost in preparing the prime necessity of life—food. No other range made possesses the common sense means of saving fire that Crawfords do; no other range the convenience for doing work quickly and easily; no other range half so handsome—but this—a side issue. If the old range is getting slow or cranky—take a look at the Crawford. We guarantee every range for as long as you want us to.

TURNED OVER TO THE POLICE.

Supposed Crank from Norwich Arrested at the White House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—John Decker of Norwich, Conn., who evidently is a mechanic, about 44 years of age, entered the White House soon after the doors were opened this morning. The officials thought from his actions that he was a crank and arrested him. He was not armed and made no resistance when placed under arrest. He was turned over to the police authorities.

NEVER SHOWED ANY VIOLENCE.

John Decker Not Considered Particularly Bright Mentally.

NORWICH, Conn., Oct. 7.—John Decker, who is supposed to be the man under arrest in Washington, has been employed for the last two years at the factory of the Thames Arms Company. He has a brother Henry, who also works in the factory. John is unmarried.

At the office of the factory it was said that John Decker came there yesterday morning, dressed in his Sunday clothes, and announced that he wanted to give up his position, saying that he was going away. He was paid off and left. As far as has been learned he said nothing about where he was going. The manager of the Thames Arms Company says that while Decker was peculiar and was not considered particularly bright mentally, he never showed any signs of violence.

FOR HAVING SHORT LOBSTERS.

Two Men Fined $15 Each in Fall River District Court.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 7.—Charles A. Sanford was fined $15 in the Second district court this morning, for having in his possession 49 short lobsters September 16. Dirwin T. Johnson, the local expressman, from whom the lobsters were seized by the game warden, and whose case was filed, was also fined $15, his case being taken from the file because the court found that Johnson had shielded L. F. Creamer when called for trial in Boston as the shipper of the lobsters in question and found not guilty. Mr. Johnson's testimony at his trial was that he purchased the lobsters through Sanford of Creamer. When a witness against Creamer he testified that he purchased the crustaceans of Sanford. The latter's defence was that he did not open the barrel containing the lobsters before delivering them to Johnson, but he admitted that his clerk opened the barrel and took out eight of the lobsters.

PROHIBITIONISTS NAME STATE TICKET

Jencks and Aldrich Chosen to Lead the Party.

Platform Devoted Largely to the Liquor Question.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 7.—The state convention of the Prohibition party was held here today, there being in attendance only 36 of the 110 accredited delegates. A platform of principles was adopted and a state ticket placed in nomination.

Chairman C. H. Tilley called the convention to order shortly before noon, and the roll was read by Secretary C. G. Gleason. William E. Brightman of Tiverton, the prohibition candidate last year for governor, was made temporary chairman, and C. G. Gleason temporary secretary.

The temporary organization was made permanent and a committee appointed as follows, to prepare a declaration of principles: R. E. Helme, Washington county; Pierce Tuckerman, Kent county; H. B. Metcalf, Providence county; R. J. Grinnell, Newport county; F. G. Jenders, Bristol county.

Chairman Brightman in addressing the convention said that he agreed with Governor L. F. C. Garvin that there was an unusually large amount of corruption in this state. Rev. C. A. Crane, D. D., of Boston spoke on the corrupt methods employed by the two dominant parties and argued that the voters generally were derelict in their duty because they gave little heed to the character of the men they supported and the principles they represented.

Hon. Henry B. Metcalf, in a brief speech, said with much vehemence that the caucus law of this state was conceived for the purpose of smothering the minority parties, and was a scandal from beginning to end.

The burden of the platform reported by the committee was on the liquor question. "The legalized saloon is a menace to the purity and manhood of young men, it furnishes one of the easiest possible places in which they may go wrong and offers a constant temptation, sanctioned by the authority of the state, to lead them astray.

"The licensed saloon recruits from young men. Should the voters of the state put the Prohibition party in power it would close up, first, all the legalized saloons; second, all the illegal saloons. It would need no police commission and very little change in the present constabulary. The dominant party was arraigned for its lax attitude and it is charged with making no open, aggressive or effective opposition to resist the encroachment of the saloon.

"The Prohibitory party stands for higher citizenship, better ideals, better morals, if America is to have success in inculcating principles of equality, freedom and justice among the people in its dependencies, it must part company with the American saloon, which now is fostered in all its outlying possessions."

The following ticket was reported by the nominating committee and unanimously chosen: For governor, Frederick T. Jencks, Burlington; lieutenant governor, Cyrus A. Aldrich, East Providence; secretary of state, Samuel B. Prentice, Providence; attorney general, Thomas H. Peabody, Westerly; treasurer, John R. Trafton, Pawtucket. The acceptance speeches of the candidates concluded the work of the convention and it adjourned.

Thirteen cities and towns in the state were represented by delegates, only two of them being from Newport county. Middletown was represented by R. J. Grinnell and Tiverton by William E. Brightman.

The state central committee includes the following from Newport county: R. J. Grinnell of Middletown, John W. Gillingham and Frederick Weir of Newport, Dr. Benjamin Greene of Portsmouth and William Williams of Tiverton.

R. J. Grinnell of Middletown represented Newport county on both the committees on resolutions and nominations.

BURGLARS ESCAPE.

Steal Silverware Valued at $1,000 in Marlboro, Mass.

MARLBORO, Mass., Oct. 7.—Silverware valued at $1,000 was stolen during the night from the residence of Mrs. L. W. Hitchcock, a mile from the centre of the city. The burglars effected an entrance through a window, and the family and servants, who were sleeping on the second floor, were not awakened. The local police were notified today, and are at work on the case, but no clue has yet been found as to the identity of the burglars.

EXPECTS TO ACCEPT THE NOMINATION.

Hinrichs to Take Grout's Place on the Ticket.

No Attacks to be Made on Men Who Are to be Dropped.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Frederic W. Hinrichs, who has been agreed upon by the fusionist leaders as the successor on their ticket of Comptroller Grout, declined today to discuss the question of acceptance of the nomination in advance of its formal tender by the convention of tonight. Said he: "I am in an embarrassing position at present, as no nomination has been offered to me. As a matter of fact, there has been no nomination, as the committee has only decided on my name to be presented tonight. I cannot say whether I will accept the nomination if it is tendered to me."

Mayor Low, Comptroller Grout and President Fornes of the board of aldermen, central figures in the complicated political situation in Greater New York, met today in a session of board of estimate, and their personal attitude was strangely true to their political attitude. The mayor shook hands rather cordially with Fornes, but his only greeting to Grout was a formal inclination of the head. Grout's acknowledgment was a nod that was short and quick. Grout and Fornes clasped hands across the table in warm and effusive welcome, and their extended arms made an arch on a line with the face of the mayor, who sat quietly at the head of the table. Officially they all talked, but the proceedings were formal and frigid.

The Evening Post says that Frederic Hinrichs gave assurances privately that he would accept the nomination for comptroller on the fusionist ticket in place of Grout before the Citizens' Union committee met yesterday.

When the Republican city convention meets tonight it is planned to drop Grout and Fornes by resolution, and immediately nominate their successors on the ticket. It is said that neither the resolution nor the speeches will contain attacks upon the two nominees who are to be withdrawn.

Mr. Grout declined today either to deny or affirm a report that Leader Murphy of Tammany had induced him to refrain from making a legal fight to hold his place on the fusion ticket.

REVIEWED THE CADETS.

The Honourables of London and the Honorables of Boston at West Point.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Honourable Artillery Company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston arriver here today on steamer Sirius in a drizzling rain. They were met at the landing by Captain Coe, the post adjutant, and Captain King of the quartermaster's department. Miss Mills, daughter of the superintendent, met the only two women with the party, Lady Denbigh and Miss Courtney Baylor. The British artillery marched up from the landing, the Boston Ancients riding. Arriving at the top of the hill a salute was fired and the battalion of cadets was paraded in front of the barracks. The guests were escorted to Superintendent Mills's quarters, where a reception was given. The officers of the post were present. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets, after which the visitors returned to the boat and sailed down the river.

AT THE MULE SPINNERS' CONVENTION.

Father of the Eight-Hour Movement Given a Rousing Reception.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Promptly at 9 o'clock today President Michael Duggan of Lowell called to order the representatives of the 33 textile districts of New England, New York and New Jersey who are attending the National Mule Spinners' convention here. The convention went into secret session at once.

The first business of the session was the report of Messrs. Ross, O'Donnell and Cliffe, the representatives of the mule spinners on the executive board of the United Textile Workers of America. The report was a detailed account of the condition of affairs in the entire industry and dealt with the strikes and lockouts in the trade.

Special stress was laid on several Rhode Island strikes and the terms of settlement. In one case, which has not been settled, the committee reported that they had the promise of the mill treasurer to meet them again and that a settlement would no doubt be reached. The trade labels of every craft affiliated with the American Federation of Labor were endorsed.

George E. McNeil, the veteran labor leader and father of the eight-hour movement, was given a rousing reception. He gave a graphic description of the labor movement of 50 years ago, when he said that it took a man of great moral stramina to belong to a labor organization. At the close of his address the delegates were photographed in a group and then adjourned until afternoon.

STEEL SHARES MAKE EARLY GAINS.

Caused Probably by London's Higher Prices for These Issues.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Interest in today's stock market centered largely around the Steel shares, particularly the common. London's higher prices for these issues was doubtless the chief reason for their early strength here. Opening prices for Steel common ranged from 17½ to 17¾ for 5,000 shares, ⅛ above and below yesterday's close. Steel preferred on sales of 3,000 shares made a maximum advance of ⅝. The balance of the list was generally higher.

Early gains in Steel stocks were soon lost, the common declining a full point and the five per cent bonds almost as much. The weakest stock in the list was Amalgamated Copper, which declined almost two points on heavy selling credited to Boston.

ATTRIBUTED TO THE SPREAD OF CHOLERA

Increase Reported in Death Rate of the Army.

Few Cases of Alcoholism Among the Filipinos.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—An increase in the death rate of the army from 13.94 per thousand in 1901 to 15.49 per thousand in 1902 is shown in the annual report of Surgeon General R. M. O'Reilly for the fiscal year ending June 30. This increase is attributed to cholera, which caused 3.54 deaths per thousand. A slight improvement appears in the admission rate for disease and injury, which declines from 1791.59 per thousand in 1901 to 1736.51 per thousand in 1902. Discussing other features of the health of the army, Surgeon General O'Reilly's report says:

"The enrolment of about 5,000 native Filipino scouts having added a new racial element to the army it becomes a matter of much interest to study the comparative effects of disease on them and on our white and colored troops. For the whole army at home and abroad during the year 1902 the white troops showed an admission rate of 1700.83 per thousand and a death rate of 14.40. The negro troops had 1897.74 admissions and 24.11 deaths per thousand, and the Malay scouts 1707.21 admissions per thousand and 24.4 deaths. The white race therefore gave the lowest figures in sickness and much the lowest mortality. The black race led in both, although the Malay closely approached it in death rate.

"The freedom of the Filipino from the vice of drunkenness is strikingly shown when we find that out of 5,000 men only three individuals were treated for alcoholism in one year, and that while white soldiers were admitted to sick report on account of their own misconduct in the use of alcohol at the rate of 34.78 per thousand, and colored troops at the rate of 11.70, the Malay scouts showed the extremely small admission rate of 0.62 per thousand.

"The steadily increasing prevalence of venereal disease is the most discouraging feature in the sick report of the army. During 1902, 13,000 admissions were from this cause, equivalent to a rate of 160.94 per thousand. Admissions to sick report from alcoholism in 1902 were slightly in excess of the number (including volunteers) for 1901. A total number of 1,830 cases equivalent to 22.65 per thousand of strength occurred. It is impossible not to attribute a large part of the steadily increasing venereal disease of the army to the loss of the canteen, where the soldier if he so desired could get his beer throughout the month but was not subjected to the temptations to intemperance and vice now abundant on the expenditure of a full month's pay at the low resorts infesting the outskirts of our military reservations.

"A slight diminution of insanity occurred in the army during 1902. There were 138 new cases, equivalent to the admission rate of 1.71 per thousand, which is almost identical with the decade 1891 to 1900."

PLAINTIFF CAN RECOVER.

Decision in the Western Union-American Bell Company Reversed.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—A decision involving a very large amount, and reversing the finding of the United States circuit court, was sent down today by the United States circuit court of appeals, in the case of the Western Union Telegraph Company, et al. vs. the American Bell Telephone Company. A master's report in the case, which held that the plaintiff could not recover in the suit seeking an accounting for certain shares of stock in the companies licensed by the Bell company, under a contract made in November, 1879, was confirmed by the United States circuit court. Appeal was taken and the court of appeals holds that the plaintiff can recover.

The suits grew out of the alleged action of the Bell company in changing its course of business and receiving its stock in part return for rental of telephones, in which rental the Western Union claimed to have a share of 20 per cent under the contract. The telegraph company alleged that the total amount of stock, said to aggregate about $18,000,000, was as much rental as the cash received, and sued to maintain its alleged rights.

TORE THEIR CLOTHING.

Striking Girl Rag Sorters Attack Employes Who Took Their Places.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Twenty-five striking girl rag sorters, formerly employed in the factory of Steinberg Bros. in First street, made an attack upon the 15 girls who were employed in their places as the latter were about to enter the factory early today. Encouraged by 1,000 spectators, the rioting girls tore the clothing of the workers and pummelled them with their fists. All the windows in the front of the building were broken by missiles thrown by the combatants. A man who tried to protect the working girls was struck on the head with a brick, and after being rescued from the rioters by the police was sent to the hospital and the police reserves were summoned, but two policemen had quelled the disturbers before the reserves arrived. One girl, said to be the ringleader, was arrested. The strikers had been out three weeks.

Great Northern Paper Mills in Madison, Me., Resume Operations.

MADISON, Me., Oct. 7.—The mills of the Great Northern Paper Company were started today with 300 men, nearly the entire crew. The new departure has been instituted. Owing to the low water making it almost impossible to obtain sufficient ground wood to make newspaper, the management have decided to make bag paper for a while at least. The wood room, grind wood and sulphite departments have started and the paper machines began running in preparation for their new line of work.

FISCAL PROPOSALS BASED ON AN ERROR

Claim of Critics Regarding Chamberlain's Scheme.

Attitude of Colonies the Most Important Factor.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—While there is no evidence of a rush on the part of the exponents of public opinion or of the electorate to give Joseph Chamberlain's fiscal proposals immediate endorsement, there is ample proof of a desire to exhaustively examine his program and accept or reject it on its merits rather than on party lines. It is realized that the attitude of the colonies is probably the important factor in his scheme, and what they will say to his statement that they are prepared to contribute towards imperial preferential tariffs will largely determine the ultimate decision of this country.

The critics of the former secretary for the colonies claim that his whole diagnosis of the present state of the trade of the United Kingdom hangs on a statistical blunder in the comparison of the exports of 1902 with those of 1872. The latter year was notoriously phenomenal as an export year because of the requirements of Germany and France after the war between those two countries, and it is pointed out that Great Britain furnished the bulk of these, and that her exports consequently bounded up from $1,115,000,000, in 1871, to $1,280,000,000 in 1872, after which they gradually receded to the same total as in 1871.

It is therefore contended by the critics that the whole fabric of Mr. Chamberlain's argument is based on an elementary error, and that while his fiscal arithmetic is logical, his premises are hypothetical and unproved. It is anticipated that the colonies will resent Mr. Chamberlain's suggestion that British colonial manufacturing growth should be thwarted for the benefit of British manufacturers. On the whole, the former colonial secretary's pronouncement is not unfavorably received. On the stock exchange the various departments opened with a better all-round tone.

The Evening Standard, a staunch government organ, commenting on Mr. Chamberlain's speech, says:

"Altogether his speech strengthens the conclusion that the movement has been premature, and that the facts which are held to justify it have been loosely collected and only half assimilated."

IROQUOIS CLUB FOR TAMMANY.

Fusionists to Substitute Hinrichs for Grout.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Headway was made by Charles F. Murphy today in counteracting the revolt of Hugh McLaughlin, and in carrying the war into the camp of the Brooklyn regulars. The Iroquois Democratic Club, which is in the eastern district and is the rallying ground of the Coffey Democracy, endorsed the whole Democratic ticket and offered the Tammany invaders the use of their clubroom as an armory. The club of Representative Lindsay adopted resolutions endorsing McClellan, Grout and Fornes.

The fusionists selected Frederick W. Hinrichs to be their candidate for comptroller, and probably will make Edward J. McGuire their candidate for president of the board of aldermen. Mr. Hinrichs will not greatly help the strategy of the campaign in Brooklyn, where it had been expected that a man whom McLaughlin would endorse would be on the ticket. With a rare capacity for blundering, the fusionists have taken a candidate for comptroller who is almost as unacceptable to Mr. McLaughlin as Mr. Grout.

The Republican and "Cits" convention will be held tomorrow night for the purpose of creating vacancies in the places held by Messrs. Grout and Fornes, and filling them. The Republicans will meet in Carnegie Hall and the "Cits" in Cooper Union. It is expected that Mr. Grout will have an injunction ready. Mr. Grout said today that he would decline no nomination. Old-time politicians tonight failed to recall a time when a similar situation existed in a city campaign. There is less than a month for campaigning, and the first day of registration comes Friday. It will find some of the tickets still incomplete, and the canvass still to be made.

Mr. Grout, when informed tonight that Mr. Hinrichs had been agreed upon as the candidate for comptroller on the fusion ticket, issued the following statement:

"I do not believe that Mr. Hinrichs can accept the nomination. The first man that I met after the newspaper had published the news of the proposed indorsement of me by the Democratic party, and my statement of the unconditional terms upon which I could accept, was Frederick W. Hinrichs. He thought that I was right and his every expression and opinion were precisely the same as mine. In view of that consideration, I do not believe that Mr. Hinrichs will feel that he can accept the nomination."

DECLARES FOR PROTECTION.

Chamberlain Opens His Tariff Campaign in a Masterly Way.

GLASGOW, Oct. 6.—Whatever may be the opinion held regarding the great question which Mr. Chamberlain has raised or the probable issues of his campaign, it is generally admitted that he has opened it in a masterly manner, befitting the momentous occasion, and that he can no longer be accused of nebulosity in presenting his case. For nearly two hours, only referring occasionally to fairly full notes for figures and statistics, he held a vast and enthusiastic audience absorbed by one of his finest oratorical efforts.

As though inspired by the knowledge that the practical collapse and breakup of the Unionist party left him in sole possession of the field, he spoke with more than his customary energy and persuasiveness, lacking nothing in lucidity, either of phrase or argument. His appeal to the working classes, upon whom more than any section of the community, especially since the defection of the Duke of Devonshire from the administration, the success or the failure of his preferential scheme will depend, was eminently calculated to enlist their support.

It was an inspiring scene in St. Andrew's Hall, where he delivered his speech. The auditorium was packed with men and women, cheering and waving handkerchiefs as the chairman, Sir Matthew Arnold, led Mr. Chamberlain to the platform. The late colonial secretary, pale but self possessed and alert, with his customary eyeglass and rotund, stood bowing his acknowledgments to the acclamations while the organ played "See the Conquering Hero Comes."

A distinguished company of peers and members of the House of Commons was present, with a host of ladies, including Mrs. Chamberlain, in the reserved gallery. Despite a dreary and ceaseless rainfall, the hall had been full to overflowing since 6 p. m., the beautiful and stately interior presenting a brilliant scene. The enthusiasm of the audience was worked up by the organist playing a selection of inspiring national airs, such as "Rule Britannia," "Ye Mariners of England," and, at the moment of Mr. Chamberlain's appearance, the national anthem, during the playing of which the whole audience stood up, singing.

When the applause which greeted his arrival had subsided, Mr. Chamberlain began to speak, and besides encouraging cheers in the course of his oration, he was greeted at the close with a great demonstration.

The points of his speech attracting chief attention were his eulogy of Mr. Balfour and his repudiation of the idea of superseding him; his representation of the coming struggle as one greater in its consequence than the Boer war; his declaration that all wrongdoing in the colonies were protectionists and that any labor leader vexing the colonies would inevitably be converted to protection; his description of the American tariff as an abomination and his curious presentation of the case as affecting the workmen's exchequer.

ANOTHER FOR PITTSBURG.

Big Rally by Boston in the Ninth Came Too Late.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 6.—Notwithstanding showers and threatening weather, the first game on the home grounds of the world's championship series between Pittsburg and Boston was played today, resulting in a victory for the local team, 5 to 4. The weather conditions kept the attendance down, although a good-sized crowd witnessed the game.

Phillippi again pitched for Pittsburg and again was his great work mainly responsible for the downfall of the American League champions. His control was perfect and his support superb, a dropped thrown ball by Beaumont being the only misplay. Only four singles were made off his delivery up to the ninth inning. However, in this inning the visitors developed a batting streak and for a moment seemed likely to tie the score, but he steadied down and retired the side after three runs had been scored. For Boston, Dineen was hit rather hard at times. His support was also of the best.

In the first inning singles by Beaumont, Wagner and Bransfield scored Pittsburg's first run. Beaumont's triple and Leach's single scored another in the fifth. In the seventh singles by Phillippi, Beaumont and Wagner and Leach's three-bagger scored three runs.

The Bostons did not score until the fifth, when Lachance's single, Ferris's sacrifice and Criger's single gave them one run. This was the extent of their run getting until the ninth, when Collins, Stahl, Freeman, Lachance and Ferris all hit safely, and, aided by Farrell's long fly, netted three runs.

The series now stands three to one in favor of Pittsburg. Attendance, 7,600.

CHOW CHOW AND MIXED PICKLES.

[New York Tribune.]

There is an old rhyme—

For palates grown callous almost to disease,
Who peppers the highest is surest to please—

which undoubtedly expresses the opinion of many people in regard to some of the highly seasoned mustard sauces and old English chow chows formerly admired. It is not true, however, that a chow chow is necessarily an unwholesome dish, which only stimulates the appetite. Condiments and spices actually assist the digestion, and as such should always be employed by intelligent cooks. A chow chow may be a more wholesome dish than a beef broth if eaten in moderation, as it should be. On the other hand, a beef broth may be so badly made that it is simply a greasy burden to the stomach.

At the end of the eighteenth century, after the conquest of India, a great many East Indian dishes were introduced into British and American cookery. It is said that mulligatawny soup, a highly curry seasoned chicken soup, became for the time the fashionable dish. The word simply means "pepper water." Curry, introduced from India, and a wholesome thing properly used, was a fad, and chow chow and chutneys of various kinds became popular and were copied by English housewives, sometimes with success, but more often without it. A great many of these dishes were indigestible and unwholesome. There are, as a survival of this period of English cooking, excellent chow chows, and two good recipes are repeated—one for a mixed pickle in a mild paste of mustard and the other for a well seasoned chopped pickle to serve with meats.

To make the chopped pickle or chow chow take one peck of green tomatoes, half a peck of ripe tomatoes, half a dozen white onions, three heads of white cabbage, one dozen green peppers and three red peppers. Chop the tomatoes, cabbage and other ingredients together until they are a fine hash. Drain off any surplus juice and sprinkle a heaped cup of fine salt over the vegetables and pack them in a coarse bag. One of burlap will answer all purposes. Lay the vegetables in salt over slats laid across a barrel. Put a board and weights over them so that the crude juices will be pressed out. Let them remain 24 hours in press, then add to them three pounds of sugar, half a cup of grated horse radish, one tablespoonful each of ground black pepper, ground mustard, white mustard seed, celery seed and ground ginger. Knead all the ingredients together, and finally add a gill of Dutch mustard (mixed). When the ingredients are well blended cover them with good cider vinegar. Keep the chow chow in covered stone jars under vinegar.

To make the mixed pickle select a quart of large green cucumbers sliced in small chunks, a quart of tiny cucumbers about two inches or less in length, a quart of white button onions, a quart of green tomatoes cut in chunks like the large cucumbers, four large peppers cut in coarse bits and one large cauliflower divided into tiny flowerets. Put all the vegetables in a weak brine made by mixing a cup of salt in a gallon of water. Let the pickles soak for twenty-four hours in this brine. Then put them in a porcelain lined kettle and scald them up in the brine they were soaked in and drain them thoroughly.

Make a paste of six tablespoonfuls of ground mustard, one tablespoonful of turmeric, a cup of flour, a cup of sugar and two quarts of good cider vinegar. Stir this dry mixture with a little of the vinegar, and then add the remainder. Put it in a clean porcelain lined kettle with the pickles that should have been drained from the brine. Stir the whole until it sends and becomes smooth and thick. Seal it up in large mouthed jars or bottles. It is good the day after it is made, but it is better at the end of a month.

KANSAS IN NEED OF FARM LABORERS.

[Topeka letter to Boston Transcript.]

Notwithstanding the fact that 25,000 harvest hands came into the Kansas wheat belt from other states less than 90 days ago, many of whom still remain, there is a great scarcity of labor in Kansas, especially farm labor. Manufacturing industries of all kinds are using all the labor they can secure, especially in the oil and gas belt of southeastern Kansas. Operators of the coal mines say they cannot begin to supply the demand for coal because of a shortage of miners, the railroads need men to help move wheat, and the state free employment bureau is flooded with applications for common laborers. But the greatest demand of all for laborers is in the wheat belt. There still remains in the wheat counties a majority of those who went there as harvest hands in July, but thousands more could find employment. Many of these who helped in the harvest are now employed on the threshing machines, and the threshers will be running till Christmas. Others have rented land for themselves and are busy preparing it for next year's wheat crop.

In some localities the problem of getting this year's crop out of the fields in time to seed them for next year's crop is worrying the farmers just now, as they cannot get help enough to do this work. One Graham county farmer wants 60 men with teams for the next 60 days at least. He harvested 6,000 acres of wheat this year and wants to seed the same land this fall. As far as he has threshed his wheat it has yielded upwards of 30 bushels to the acre. None of it has yielded less than 25 bushels, and some has gone as high as 35. He expects his 6,000 acres to bring him a net profit of $30,000 this year. Graham county is in the northwestern part of the state, a region which has been thought to be worthless for agricultural purposes until within the last few years. It is in the fourth row of counties from the Colorado line, but it is only a fair sample of conditions in a dozen more counties in that region.

As a rule, when there is a large crop of one kind, most other crops are short, but this year every crop is a record-breaker in western Kansas. Not only is there a tremendous crop of wheat, but corn is turning out excellently in the northwestern and northern parts of the state. There was a frost in that locality recently, but the corn was so far advanced that it did little damage. Further east, where the heavy rains and floods interfered with the farm work last spring and washed out much corn, compelling the farmers to replant it, that cereal still needs two weeks of warm weather to mature it. Western Kansas produces practically all the barley raised in the state, and that, too, was a large crop this year. Alfalfa never yielded more hay than this year, and the forage crops, kaffir corn and sorghum, are tremendous.

MANUFACTURING BAMBOO FURNITURE.

[New York Times.]

In Sixth avenue there is a bamboo manufactory where nothing but bamboo is handled. The superintendent of it is a Japanese, for Japan grows the only bamboo tree that is worth putting under the lathe. China sends some bamboo to this country, but it is like California wine as compared with the vintage of Bordeaux. Some bamboo is grown in Florida, Georgia and Panama, but it is too soft to work up well. The French once tried to grow it in the south of France, but gave it up.

The bamboo from Japan comes in lengths of from four to twenty feet, wrapped loosely in straw matting. The short lengths have been pulled up by the roots, which are worked into curiously formed heads for canes and corners for book cases. The long strips are of full growth, and are made into furniture. The smoked bamboo that comes from Japan is very different from the bamboo smoked here. They know how to do it in Japan. But most of the Japanese article sent here is of cream-colored, natural tint, and is colored according to requirements.

Carpenters who work on bamboo furniture do not make as high wages as bamboo carpenters, but they come out better in the long run. There is work for them all the time, for the demand for bamboo furniture is much greater than the supply. Many persons who have lived in Japan, where the houses are made of bamboo, are constantly calling for bamboo material here. They want beds made of it. Sometimes architects send designs to the bamboo factory for special furniture for the library or smoking room. Some New York homes have a Japanese room. In some instances the bent wood furniture costs more than the Japanese wood, but in most cases it is cheaper. Calcutta sends a kind of bamboo marked with peculiar tiger-like stripes that artists like for making easels.

INVENTOR OF THE STEAM ENGINE.

The reciprocating steam engine was really the product of several inventive minds. Watt has sometimes received the most credit, but he merely improved upon another's work. Newcomen let the steam into only one end of his cylinder, and applied his crude motor only to such service as pumping. Watt provided for double action, added a condenser and steam jacket, and converted the oscillating motion derived from a piston into rotary motion. Railways, steamships and cheap power for manufacturing were made possible by these advances. In just what proportion the world should divide its gratitude between these two men is not an easy question to settle. Even today engineering authorities are not altogether agreed on that point.

"And if any of the within described bottles, vessels, and receptacles are found in possession of any person, copartnership, or body corporate other than the manufacturer, bottler, dealer, or legal purchaser or purchasers or receiver thereof without the written consent of such manufacturer, bottler, or dealer, the same may be seized by any peace officer, police officer, or any inspector of any incorporated state bottling protective association who is also a peace officer, without warrant, wherever he shall find the same being illegally held or used, as specified in this section, and may detain the same in some place of safe keeping until a warrant can be secured against the person so illegally holding or using the same.

"Any person offending against the provisions of this section shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than three months, or by a fine of one dollar for each and every such vessel or receptacle so filled, sold, given, held, disposed of, or trafficked in, or from which the name, device, or other designation of ownership has been erased, defaced, covered up, or otherwise removed or cancelled, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

BILLS ORDERED PAID.

Despite Exhausted Appropriations and Unadvertised Contracts.

Board of Health Asks for More Money to Cover Expenses of Contagious Diseases.

The City Council at its monthly meeting Tuesday evening transacted considerable business, but little of an important nature. The building on Franklin street which is falling down was considered at some length and several members thought the city should take immediate and decisive steps to prevent a serious calamity. The city solicitor said the city has no authority to tear down the building under the present laws, and the matter was referred to the ordinance committee, with the understanding that an ordinance will be drawn at once to provide some means of removing the danger which the building in its present condition threatens.

In the Board of Aldermen there was a rather heated discussion over a number of bills which had been charged to the appropriation for incidentals, which is already exhausted, and finally the city treasurer was authorized to pay the bills from some source not named. There was also some discussion about a bill for granolithic curbstone, which Alderman Bliss said had not been properly advertised for. The ordinance restricts members of the City Council from doing any work for the city except when the work is publicly advertised, the work in this case having been done by a firm of which one of the aldermen is a member. There was nothing but words in this matter and the bill was allowed and ordered paid.

The Board of Health asked for an additional appropriation of $2,100, as it had been obliged on account of the continued prevalence of diphtheria to increase an expense which had not been anticipated when its estimates were made up. The resolution making the additional appropriation was referred to the finance committee.

There was but one absentee, Councilman McLennan of the Second ward.

Finance report No. 9 was read and the following amounts were ordered paid from the several appropriations named:

City Asylum,	$502.75
Books, Stationery and Printing,	189.36
Fire Department,	1,084.31
Board of Health,	981.42
Incidentals,	122.25

Agassiz Fund,	165.88
Thomas Chapman Estate,	8.00
Touro Jews' Synagogue Fund,	137.98
Dog Fund,	66.00
Ward Meetings,	433.99
Burial Grounds,	56.00
Indexing and Preserving Records,	75.80
Joseph Anthony Burial Ground Fund,	113.33
Emergency Hospital,	2,832.08
Poor Department,	344.17
Police,	138.81
Public Buildings,	330.11
Public Parks,	1,071.18
Public Schools,	10,086.80
Streets and Highways,	5,161.91
	$27,803.27

When the report had been read in the upper board Alderman Bliss said he wished to call attention to an item of $1,500 for granolithic curbing, which was approved by the committee on streets and highways. When this bill was before the finance committee the statement was made by a member of the highway committee that the work had not been publicly advertised as the city ordinances require when a member of the City Council is in any way connected with a firm which bids for city work. Instead, private letters had been sent to two firms asking proposals for the work, to E. R. Taylor & Co., who bid 85 cents, and to Warren Brothers, who bid 95 cents, the contract having been given to Taylor & Co. Alderman Bliss asked the city solicitor if sending private letters was public advertising as called for in the ordinance, and City Solicitor Brown said he thought the ordinance contemplated the submission of the request for proposals by public advertising.

The matter was discussed somewhat at length by Alderman Bliss and Alderman Shepley, chairman of the committee on streets and highways, the latter saying there are no masons in the city prepared to do the work of placing a steel and granolithic curb. Alderman Bliss said the City Council early in the year passed a resolution directing the committee on streets and highways to ask by advertising for bids for all granolithic work, and in spite of that resolution the highway committee throws out all the masons in the city who could do the work and asks by private letters only two firms, and one of them outside of the city, to do the work. Alderman Bliss said he had objected to the bill in the finance committee, and must object to it now. In spite of the talk all the bills, including that for the granolithic curb, were approved and ordered paid.

The finance committee reported back three bills, for $333.33 each, from the several bands which had given park concerts during the summer, and the bill of Hugh N. Gifford, jailer, amounting to $273.74, which had been charged to the appropriation for incidentals, stating that there is no money to the credit of that appropriation in the treasury. In the Board of Aldermen Alderman Hamilton said the bills for the bands ought to be paid. Alderman Bliss agreed to this, but said the finance committee could not approve bills to be paid from an appropriation which had been exhausted. The City Council must provide a way of paying the bills. Mayor Boyle said that if the appropriation for incidentals had been exhausted when it was known that there was to be a charge of $1,000 for band concerts against it, the committee was at fault and should have made some provision for paying the bill. Alderman Bliss said he had twice reported that the appropriation for incidentals was practically exhausted but the City Council had paid no attention to the matter. The discussion continued along the same lines for some time and finally the city treasurer was authorized to pay the bills.

On recommendation of the finance committee the city treasurer was authorized to accept the sum of $100 for the care of the Caroline Carter burial lot in the Old cemetery.

The monthly report of the clerk of the finance committee, showing the balances of the various appropriations

BOODLING IN BUSINESS.

Sharp Methods Should be Condemned as Emphatically as the Graft of the Public Official.

"Boodling" is a word created to describe the crime of "prostituting public office to private gain." The public officer performs some function connected with government, and is paid from the people's money collected by taxation. In a broader sense, though the relation to the community is more obscure, every man who works at a legitimate employment is a public servant. If he make shoes, or sell shoes, he does that which is necessary to the public. If all the shoemaking were done by one man, elected by the people, his relation to the army of consumers morally would be little different from the relation which now exists between the many unofficial shoemakers and the wearers or purchasers of shoes. The shoemaker performs a service for the community, a public service, and the obligation is just as binding that he do his work well as is that resting upon the mayor of St. Louis.

The thing is absolutely true in every walk of life, from the laborer up, the only difference being in the degree of responsibility. While he who transgresses the law of man, as does the municipal or state bribe-taker, should be made to pay the penalty behind the bars, the fact should be held in mind that graft in business is a moral offence of like nature. The upright public should condemn so-called "sharp" business methods just as emphatically as it denounces those who disgrace our republican form of government.

A flagrant example of "business boodling" is illustrated in recent despatches from Washington. "There are no chateau or vineyard wines shipped to the United States," declared the chief of the bureau of chemistry to the Associated Press. "The American people drink nothing but labels." In other words, comparatively cheap wines are bottled as the chateau or vineyard product, labeled as genuine, and sold in the United States at a high figure. With relation to beverages, either rank fraud, such as the above substitution, or dilution is an extensive practice. The evil has been found to pervade into the milk supply of most of the large cities. Inquire of the old bottle dealers in St. Louis, and they will tell you, if they feel disposed to be confidential, that imported wines and liquor bottles sell at high figures to Americans who make it a business to re-fill them with an inferior article of domestic manufacture.

These are cases, if proof were collected, which could be prosecuted as swindles, but there is the man who uses the short-weight scales, and the delicate system of "exchange of favors" in the broader business field; all of them are part and parcel of the thing called "boodling."

The matter of exchange of favors is a difficult one upon which to lay down a hard and fast rule. The representative of any business interest daily meets with men who are ever-ready with little "presents"—cigars all the way from one to a box, birthday reminders and inside discounts. The maintenance of friendly relations is both good business and decidedly more pleasant. Often it amounts to an insult, an imputation of motive when none existed, to refuse some such trivial proffered gift. To give is nobler than to receive, but it is an honor to receive; if the giving hide no ulterior motive, and the receiving imply no loss of dignity or suspicious obligation. To decide between cases is a matter of weighing the circumstances, of "sizing up" the men with whom dealings are conducted. A constant attitude of opposition to a sacrifice of scruples or to granting the merest concession for a "consideration" is necessary, else step by step will follow a drifting into a toleration of methods which amount to boodling.

When an "aroused public conscience" is demanding higher and better things of elected officers, those voters who go to the polls determined to cast their ballots for the honest candidate as against corruption and corrupt men should apply the same severe test to their dealings and to those with whom they deal. The plea of the boodlers has been: "It's business." A poor excuse, no doubt, but an effort at extenuation on the score that the same practices exist to a limited degree in the business world. That graft in business be reduced to a minimum is just as essential as that boodlers be cast out. The two are allied, and, in the long run, while the one flourishes so will the other.

OCTOBER MOONLIGHT.

[Richard Le Gallienne, in Harper's Magazine.]

The moon is up at half-past five,
She frightens me among the pines;
The moon, and only half past five!
With half the ruddy day alive—
So soon, so high, so cold, she shines,
This daylight moon among the pines.

The moon is sleeping in the trees,
So early is she tired of heaven,
The moon is dreaming in the trees,
Her shepherd boy she seen! she sees!
Asleep, and it is only seven!
O moon, that is so tired of heaven.

"Not so much today, your elevatedness," explained the chef. "Nothing except a printer and an actor."

"Oh, well, fix them up some way."

"What are you waiting for?" asked the cannibal king.

"Would your serenely altitudinous excellency deign to suggest some method of preparing the two persons—some new dish, for instance, that would be pleasant to your royal palate?"

"Don't go to any bother. Just put the printer in the pi and the actor in the supe."

CHEAP CAB FARES.

We heartily endorse the suggestions made in recent communications to the News, advocating a reduction in the rates charged by cabmen. There is undoubtedly a demand for a 25-cent fare in Newport, and a likelihood of a large increase in the amount of riding in case such a rate were in vogue. There may be a question as to fixing a lower rate by ordinance, but the cabmen certainly have it in their power to increase the volume of their business materially if the fare were halved, as suggested. The cabman of course says there will need to be more than double the amount of riding to make him good at a half rate, because of the added wear and tear on horses and equipment. We question if this will be very great and believe that, as has been said, the cabmen will actually realize more by adopting a 25-cent fare. A 50-cent rate, when two are going to the same destination, would be a compromise upon the present rates.

The one-fare area in Newport is small compared with that in other cities, even where 25 cents is considered sufficient. Two persons are often going together, and there would more often be two riding than now if it did not cost a full dollar. Some cabmen in Newport, it is understood, have already had the courage to cut rates, and the indications are that these have done a profitable business. They are, however, known to comparatively few, and so the great majority never attempt to ride except in an emergency. The News favors a 25-cent rate, believing that it would be of advantage to cabmen and public alike.

ENGLAND'S COMMERCIAL CHANGES.

Possessing the spirit of adventure and business enterprise which had long before been demonstrated all over the world, from America to India, and also possessing coal and iron, England of course took the front rank among commercial nations as soon as the age of steam dawned upon the world, and manufacturing was transferred from the home to the factory. This advantageous position was fortified, hardly any one will deny, when she removed duties from foods and raw materials. Whatever ill effects this may have had upon her agriculture—and there is ample reason to believe that these ill effects have been much exaggerated—there cannot be any doubt about the beneficial effect of free trade upon England's manufactures.

But other nations—and notably the two most closely connected with England by blood—were endowed with progressive spirits and business enterprise, and also had coal and iron. Inevitably they joined in the race and inevitably they gained on England. They had their home markets, protected by the cost of transportation as well as by legislation. It was inevitable that England's exports to them should decline, for they had all that was required for manufacturing for themselves. It was not less inevitable that the manufacturers of this country and Germany—ours paying higher wages and German manufacturers paying lower wages than the English, but the cost of labor being not very different in various countries—should enter into competition with English manufacturers in neutral markets and to a slight extent in England itself. Consequently English manufactures have shown no such growth in the past 30 years as they showed in the 30 or 60 years before.

The result has been affected by one other contrast between England and her two rivals, for there are only two nations whose rivalry is serious. Germany has led all other nations in the development of science and the application of science to industry. The Americans are confessedly the boldest and most enterprising business men in the world. They have surpassed all others in economizing production by the use of machinery and by production on a grand scale. English manufacturers have grown to regard the trade of the world as their own and to neglect catering to it. The factories have passed from the enterprising men who built them to the sons and grandsons who inherited them. Conservatism and tradition have marked their management. The labor unions have restricted production and driven trade away. When English bricklayers got the day's work reduced to 400 bricks, and often to less, an American contractor induced them to lay 1,300 to 2,000 bricks a day on the Westinghouse works in Manchester. Mr. Chamberlain says the relative decadence of British trade is due to the fact that England practiced free trade and this country and Germany had protective tariffs. The change is far more satisfactorily explained by the facts above cited.

No one can pretend that duties on manufactured goods would help the British manufacturer away from home. If he needs them to hold the home market, then he has been beaten in the foreign markets and might as well give up. Duties on food and raw materials cannot possibly help the English manufacturer except by securing to him favors in the colonial markets. Mr. Chamberlain assumes that the colonies are begging for this arrangement; they are not; it is far from certain that they are willing to enter it. Most of them have protective duties and desire protection against English manufacturers quite as much as against American and German manufacturers. Canada gives England a preference of 33 1-3 per cent and yet our exports to the Dominion continue to increase largely.

Mr. Chamberlain's main argument, and it may be a very sound one, is that the unity of the British empire can be promoted by something like an imperial customs union. His economic argument is very weak; his political argument is rather strong, and the main question is whether the people of the home country and the colonies are willing to pay the price of more intimate union. The best point in his argument is that the prosperity of the United States is due to the fact that we have a larger free trade area than any other country, but that the British empire would afford a still greater free trade area. The weak point of this comparison is that in this country and Germany the free trade area is contiguous country occupied by homogeneous people, while the British empire is scattered all over the world and several of its elements are nearly independent nations. Besides—and this is an important qualification—the absolute free trade within the United States is a different thing commercially and politically from preferential tariffs that would continue to separate the fragments of the British empire even under Mr. Chamberlain's project.

THE COST OF THE CIVIL WAR.

The expenditures of the government in the four fiscal years 1862-5 amounted to $3,179,372,360. This is the cost of the Civil war in the way of direct disbursements. It includes also the cost of carrying on the government, but in the four years preceding the war this amounted to but little over $260,000,000. Against this there was paid out during the four war years about $179,000,000 of interest on the public debt, nearly all of which was incurred for the purposes of the Civil war, so that the costs of the war while it lasted ran well over $3,000,000,000, and may be taken at the total expenditures of the government above given. Or if we wish to be very precise we may deduct $100,000,000, the difference between interest and what the cost of carrying on the government would probably have been, and call the costs of the war $3,080,000,000.

The report of the commissioner of pensions shows that from July 1, 1865, to June 30, 1903, 38 years, the disbursements on account of pensions amounted to $3,037,826,081. Of course a little of this was for pensions for other wars than the Civil war, but these other payments form a small part of the aggregate. In the same period there was also paid for interest, almost entirely on account of the Civil war, $2,569,412,954. These three items make the cost of the Civil war to date $8,687,239,035.

How much this will be increased in the future it would take an actuary to estimate. Interest on the public debt is nearly $30,000,000 a year, and in 20 years this would amount to nearly $600,000,000. In the last fiscal year the pension payments amounted to $137,-750,653, a decrease of $2,000,000 in three years. A billion and a half dollars is a moderate estimate of the money that will yet be paid on account of pensions for the Civil war; the amount is much more likely to be $2,000,000,000.

A BLOW TO ADDICKS.

In the selection of John P. Nields of Wilmington to be United States district attorney for Delaware, President Roosevelt has ignored the recommendations of the Addicks faction of the Republicans of that state. The Addicks people, represented by Senator Allee, favored the appointment of Walter H. Hayes of Wilmington and were bitterly opposed to Nields, who has been acting as district attorney by appointment of the United States judge of that district since the resignation of William M. Byrne, several weeks ago. Mr. Nields had not only the support of the anti-Addicks faction, whose chief representative is Senator Ball, but of the bench and bar of Delaware generally, without regard to party or faction. Judge George Gray strongly urged the appointment of Mr. Nields, and this naturally had great weight with the President in reaching a decision. The appointment of Mr. Nields is regarded as a severe blow to the Addicks faction, the effects of which will be felt throughout the state.

Comptroller Grout has wisely decided to make no fight to be reunited on the fusion ticket in New York. It would have been a difficult feat to serve two masters, Tammany and Fusion, the latter being nothing if not anti-Tammany.

Hon. Charles H. Leeds, mayor of Stamford, Conn., in his course of graduate study at Yale is giving his attention to finances, railroad reports, elementary economics, elementary statistics, ethnology and English history. Mayor Leeds says he has two objects in taking this course. "The first is to prepare for teaching in case I am not successful in politics. The second is to fit myself more thoroughly for politics in case I continue to succeed."

So we are to have a new and handsomer two-cent stamp. With some people it matters little what the stamp is, so long as it carries their letters.

TEACHING WISDOM TO FOXES.

The aged agriculturist from Rappahannock county was entertaining a few friends recently with a little homily on foxes. "You've often heard the expression 'as cunning as a fox,'" he said. "Well, now a fox is more than cunning. The little creature is a brainy beast and looks far away into the future. "How do I know?" he responded in reply to a query as to his knowledge on this point. "How do I know? Why, because I've been studying the habits of foxes and rabbits and muskrats, and all that sort of little animals, ever since I was a boy. But now I'm talking particularly of foxes. Ever see 'em training their young? Well, they do, and I've watched 'em many a time on my place over in Virginia. The old fox knows perfectly well that the time will come when the little ones must run away from hounds and hunters. Consequently the mother fox, soon as the little ones get big enough to run, takes 'em out in the fields and trains them for the chase. It's a very interesting sight to watch the performance. The old one—always the mother, because the daddy fox don't care any more for his progeny than a singed tomcat does for his—she takes 'em out and starts on a run. The little ones follow her, and it's a sight.

"Away she goes, and the young ones scamper after her. Then she doubles up on them and that teaches 'em to double up on the hounds, and when she begins to notice they are becoming winded she slacks up and leads them back to their hole. This she does day after day until the young ones know just exactly what is meant."

"Does she teach them to steal chickens?" said one of the old farmer's listeners.

"No. No necessity for that," was the response. "Thieving comes to 'em by instinct, same as it does to some people."

CHURCH RELATIONS OF GIVERNORS.

(Ladies' Weekly.)

The collection of a $20,000,000 thank offering is not the only thing in which the Methodists of the United States are ahead of other denominations. According to a table compiled by the Chicago Tribune the Methodists have "handed" more men in gubernatorial chairs in this country during the last few years than any other denomination, there being no less than eight states with Methodist governors at the present time. This list leads off with Governor "Dick" Yates of Illinois and closes up with Governor Sayers of Texas, all of the eight being Republicans except Sayers and Governor Dockery of Missouri. The Presbyterians come next with a score of seven governors to their credit, two Democrats and five Republicans, this number including Governor Odell. The Baptists come in third with six executives, all Democrats, which would indicate that water and the Democratic party are better friends than some have been led to suppose. But perhaps a better explanation would be found in the fact that all the states with Baptist governors are in the extreme South. The Quakers are credited with one governor, John Hunn, of Delaware; the Episcopalians with four and the Unitarians with one. Twelve governors are entered in the list as men with no professed church connections.

News and Notes of Interest and Importance from All Parts of the State.

Yesterday morning Martin L. Read appeared before the Seventh district court of East Providence, and made complaint that the Hope Land Company, which owns Crescent Park, had maintained a common nuisance since the first of January to the present time and asked that the company be summoned before the court. A warrant was issued and the defendant corporation will be summoned to appear before the court October 16, when an examination will be made, and if the court considers that the complaint has been sustained probably the case will be sent to the grand jury. As in all cases of individual complaints the complainant was asked to recognize in the sum of $50 before the court and a warrant of summons was issued against the company, which is returnable October 16. Dr. George F. Allison is the surety on the writ. The complaint is brought under section 3, chapter 92, of the General Laws. The following is the gist of the section: "The notorious character of the premises or the notoriously bad or intemperate character of persons visiting the same, or the keeping of the implements or appurtenances usually appertaining to grog shops, tippling shops or places wherein intoxicating liquors are sold."

Transactions which promise much in the manufacturing interests of Providence were terminated yesterday in the purchase by the Downes & Wilcox Fuse Company, of two tracts of adjoining land on Elmwood avenue, the amount of both being 175,000 feet. The land is situated in Auburn, and is bounded by Hathaway, Sawyer and Knox streets and the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company. The D. & W. Fuse Company, as it is commonly termed, is engaged in the manufacture of fuses and fuse fittings for electric lighting, power, telephone and telegraph circuits, being located at present at 407-409 Pine street. The members of the corporation are Dutee Wilcox, president; Louis W. Downes, vice president; William C. Woodward, treasurer, and Willard S. Sisson, secretary. Although the members of the corporation have made no definite plans for the use of the newly acquired land, yet it is said that in the near future a large manufacturing plant will be erected, where about 500 persons will be employed.

Captain Charles F. Hart, now in command of the large four-master Henry W. Cramp of the Crowley fleet, will leave the Cramp at Providence today and go to Boston, to take command of the giant seven-masted steel schooner Thomas W. Lawson. Captain Hart is well known in Providence, having been running to that port for nearly a year in the Cramp. Previous to taking charge of the Cramp, he was in Crowley's four-master Mount Hope, and before that in the Providence five-master Gov. Ames. He is a deep-water man, capable of taking a vessel to any part of the world, as well as a good coaster, and this undoubtedly had something to do with his selection as master of the largest sailing vessel in the world. Captain Murdoch McLean will leave the Lawson to take command of the new steel six-master W. L. Douglas. Captain W. H. Haskell of Boston will take command of the Cramp.

The construction of the new macadam road between Wickford and Saunderstown is approaching completion, only about 1,800 feet remaining to be built, which will be finished by the middle of November, barring delays.

The largest single day's catch of flounders at Block Island this season was brought in yesterday from the fishing grounds at Sandy Point. The load was 200 barrels, and it was sold on the dock for one and a half cents per pound. Weakfish in limited quantities brought 3 cents apiece. The catch of bluefish was small, the price being six cents a pound.

Sheldon, died at her home at Rocky Cynthia Sheldon, wife of Fred N. Brock Sunday, after a protracted sickness. She was the oldest daughter of the late Lemuel H. Arnold, governor of Rhode Island from 1831 to 1833. She is survived by a husband and two daughters, Mrs. Samuel Rudman and Julia L. Sheldon.

THE VOGUE OF THE AMAZON HAT

[Millinery Trade Review.]

The new Amazon shape is the one generally chosen for silk hats, about the maintenance of which as a really fashionable style for winter there is considerable hesitation. Later models promise better than those first in the field. These have not shown the sleek glossy aspect of the modern masculine hat. The pile, instead of being carefully smoothed down, is brushed back the wrong way, which relieves it of the hard and rigid appearance usual to the ordinary silk hat. In different shades of fawn and beige they look very chic and stylish. Both these and the sleek Amazon hat have very high crowns, generally widening at the top. Frequently the brim is somewhat wider on one side and rolled over more or less. Some have one wide folded band of velvet around the crown with a broad buckle in front. Others have two narrow plain bands, secured by small oblong buckles at the side. Moreover, the upturned brim on the left receives a certain amount of trimming. The simplest have a silk or velvet cockade, the more elegant a plume of ostrich tips or coque feathers.

The Oakland Queen,

Made in sizes 7-18, 8-18, 8-20. Wood or coal. A matchless beauty. Entirely new from top to bottom. We guarantee the Oakland Queen will cook more food with less fuel than any other range. It has an oven one-eighth larger than the ordinary range, the same being square (perpendicular sides), with two oven racks, and will cook evenly three tiers of food to a single baking. The back of the oven is covered with illuminum, thus lighting up the oven and also filling the pores of the iron, preventing the heat from escaping through the back. The Oakland Queen is a warranted stove and is made by the No. Dighton Co-operative Coal Co., and is sold for less money than any first-class stove.

DIVORCE DECREES.

Decisions Given in Favor of Many of the Petitioners.

Desertion and Non-Support the General Cause for Which Separation Was Asked.

Promptly at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Judge Dubois took his seat and the business of the appellate division of the supreme court was resumed, the trial in the divorce case of McCafferty vs. McCafferty at once proceeding.

William J. Wallace, one of the probation officers of Providence and agent of the St. Aloysius Home of Providence, testified that the children are there and that it is a good place for them.

Town Clerk Caswell of Jamestown testified that Mr. McCafferty is a sober, industrious man and a proper person to have the care of his children, as he did when they were with him a year and a half at Jamestown.

Mrs. McCafferty was recalled. She said there was no such occurrence in Philadelphia as her husband had said, and he never made accusation against her until she began suit for support for herself and children.

Colonel Sheffield argued briefly for Mr. McCafferty, especially in regard to the custody of the children. Mr. Nolan replied, recognizing that the welfare of the children is the chief concern of the court. A more cruel story than the husband had told against his wife has not been told. A man who would tell such a falsehood is not fit to have the children. The home was sold over her head and he deserted them. Mr. Nolan made a strong plea for the mother.

The court said: "Decision for petitioner for divorce on the grounds of desertion and non-support, with custody of minor children." The custody of the children can be changed by the court at any time. The court ordered that petitioner should not leave the state and the father should see the children.

The court then took up the case of Catherine F. Sheridan vs. Joseph A. Sheridan. The petitioner took the stand and testified to desertion, non-support and acts of cruelty, one being that she had been struck in the eye, and suffered a good deal as a result. She had had her husband bound over to keep the peace, in New York. They were married January 1, 1899. He said he would support himself, and not her. They had been separated almost four years.

Elizabeth Cashman of Newport testified. She knew of the assaults and of Mrs. Sheridan supporting herself.

Catherine Miller of Newport, mother of the petitioner, corroborated the others. There is a child four years old. At times petitioner can't see to sew on account of the eyes.

The court said: "Decision for petitioner for divorce on the grounds of desertion and non-support, with custody of minor child."

The next case was that of Dr. W. Scott Wells of Little Compton against Etta R. Wells, W. J. Brown for plaintiff. It was heard by deposition. They were married October 10, 1899. The allegation was extreme cruelty to plaintiff and his six-year-old child by another wife, and desertion for one year. Mrs. Wells left plaintiff in June, 1902, and went to her parents' home in the West, and said she proposed to remain there. The court said the case would be marked heard in part. He was not satisfied; the evidence of desertion for less than five years was not sufficient unless there was an elopement or something of such a nature.

Next came the case of Thomas Sharpe vs. Emma Sharpe, both of Newport, Judge Burke for plaintiff. This was heard by deposition and occupied 45 minutes. They were married July 23, 1857. Cruelty and living apart for more than ten years was alleged. Plaintiff's deposition showed that his wife made things so unpleasant for him by continually talking to him that he could get no rest, and in the fall of 1899 he left her and went up stairs in the same house to live with his married daughter, with whom he resided until 22 months ago. He had since boarded with Mrs. Scott and with his brother and sister. Defendant still lived in the house. She got whatever she wanted and had it charged to him until he advertised that he would no longer be responsible for her debts. Since then he gave her an allowance. There were depositions also from Walter Goffe, Joseph Sharpe and Robert Ferrent. Mr. Sheffield for defendant said his client refused to give a deposition or to come into court.

A decree was granted, for living apart more than ten years.

In the case of Bertha Matilda Young vs. William Henry Young, both of Newport, Judge Franklin appeared for plaintiff. They were married July 9, 1895. Mrs. Young testified that her husband left her August 9, 1901, and three months after she broke up housekeeping and went to live with her father. Since January 1, 1902, defendant had done nothing for her support. She worked for a milliner.

Mrs. Ladyman, in whose house the parties had lived, testified that she wrote defendant for rent and he said he had vacated the tenement and for her to look to his wife for the rent. Mrs. Young left in November.

Stephen S. Wood, father of plaintiff, said she was living with him and defendant did nothing to support her.

There was no defense and a decree was granted on the grounds of desertion and non-support.

The next case was that of Jennie Nolan vs. James E. Nolan, Mr. Burdick for plaintiff. Both are colored and they were married in Baltimore February 15, 1893. Plaintiff testified that defendant left her in November, 1895, and she had since supported herself.

Edward Davis testified to knowing plaintiff for four years. She had to support herself. His wife, Mary S. Davis, knew plaintiff for eight or nine years.

A decree was granted for non-support, with the right to resume her maiden name, Jennie Elliott.

In Carrie S. Hunter vs. Daniel J. Hunter, of Middletown, Mr. Sheffield was for plaintiff. Both parties are colored. Mrs. Hunter testified. They were married in Middletown November 24, 1895. Her husband had not lived with her or done anything for her support since August 17, 1898. She has one child, who is with her mother in Virginia.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thornton knew plaintiff for four years. She supported herself.

Mrs. Martha E. Cook, sister of plaintiff, testified to the same effect.

Decree for plaintiff, with custody of minor child.

Next came Alfred Gregory of North Tiverton vs. Fanny Dysel Gregory of Oldham, Lancashire, England. Mr. Mahoney appeared for plaintiff, who said they were married at Oldham May 19, 1883. They had lived together at defendant's mother's home for a while, then in their own home. Then defendant went to her mother's and refused to leave there. He came to America 16 years ago.

Here the court produced a letter signed Fanny Gregory, purporting to be from defendant, which said that she had not deserted her husband but he had deserted her and her two children, going with another woman. She had him in court and he had to pay her six shillings a week. Plaintiff said that after his wife returned to her mother's she did have him in court and he had to pay six shillings a week. When he knew his wife she could neither read nor write. There was no other woman in the case.

James Preston, who knew plaintiff in England and was at his wedding, said Mrs. Gregory left her husband and went to her mother. Witness went there several times to try to get them together. The mother said she was opposed to the marriage, and the only place her daughter would live was at her home.

The court said he had to accept the sworn evidence rather than the statements in the letter and granted a decree.

Theresa Cavanagh vs. James F. Cavanagh, Mr. Crandall for plaintiff, were married December 31, 1891. Mrs. Cavanagh testified that her husband had left here about three years ago and had since made no provision for her. She was compelled to support herself. He is in New York, earning a good salary.

David Emerson, her brother-in-law, and Esther K. Emerson, her sister, testified to the same effect.

Decree was granted for non-support.

Melissa D. Goodwin vs. Frederick Goodwin was next heard, Mr. Sheffield for plaintiff. It was by depositions. Extreme cruelty, compelling plaintiff to leave defendant, was charged.

Decree for plaintiff, with right to resume maiden name, Melissa Martin. They were married in Maine January 5, 1881.

The next case called was Rev. Israel Derricks vs. May Adele Derricks, who were married May 26, 1893. Mr. Sheffield appeared for plaintiff. The charge was desertion since May 1, 1896. Defendant is now residing in New Orleans. The return of the service did not show that the papers had been personally served on defendant and the court stopped proceedings then and there.

At 4:38 o'clock the case of John R. Daly vs. Nellie Daly was on. This was a long case, but the court said it would sit to hear it—and it did, until 7 o'clock. This was an application for a change in a decree granted to Mrs. Daly, giving her $30 a month and the care of two minor children. Plaintiff sought to have this changed. He wished to send the children to a school where they would be properly educated and be free from certain surroundings which he claimed were not good or wholesome, and he sought to prove that Mrs. Daly is not a proper person to have charge of the children. Mr. Cahill of Providence appeared for plaintiff and Mr. Sheffield for Mrs. Daly.

A number of men from the Training Station testified to seeing Mrs. Daly in a place on Long wharf where beer is sold, and Mrs. Daly was reported to have drunk there. There was testimony that complaint had been made about this place to the police, to the mayor and to the Police Commission, and that even a bottle of beer from the place had been given to Captain Garnett at the Police Station, but that the police took no action. Plaintiff thought the daughters were not being properly brought up and that one especially needed caring for, but no other witnesses would say that they acted other than properly when they saw them.

For Mrs. Daly a number of witnesses were called, counsel summed up, and the court decided that the plaintiff had not proved his case, and gave a decision in favor of Mrs. Daly.

At 7 o'clock the court adjourned to the second Monday in January.

STARTED IN A DRIZZLING RAIN.

Automobile Run to Pittsburg Starts at Weehawken.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The automobile run to Pittsburg, via Pine Hill, Binghamton, Bath and Buffalo, N. Y.; Erie, Pa.; Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio, was begun today at Weehawken in a drizzling rain. There were 34 contesting cars, the first getting away at 7 o'clock. The other cars in the contest left on about 34 seconds' headway. Quite a large crowd of automobile enthusiasts saw the party off. The run was along the Hudson boulevard from Weehawken toward Newburg. Today the contestants expected to make the run to Pine Hill, N. Y., 130 miles.

The contesting cars in the run were preceded two hours earlier by two pilot cars to distribute confetti along the roads. Among the starters was the car recently driven across the continent. The only woman on the run was Mrs. A. L. Riker.

This afternoon's course is a hard run over the Catskill mountains, which is expected to tax many of the lighter machines. Each machine carries an observer chosen by a manufacturer other than the owner of the car. Each machine carries 25 per cent of its weight either in passengers or lead ballast. Each is also equipped with tools which are sold with the machine and must make the entire run in exactly the same condition as when weighed in yesterday. Eighteen manufacturers are represented, all Americans.

In the evening Rev. Scott F. Hershey, Ph. D., LL. D., of Boston, spoke on "The Useful Life" and Rev. James J. Dunlop of Roxbury on "Christian Fidelity."

The Presbytery re-assembled at 8 o'clock this morning, and joined in devotional services for a half-hour, led by Rev. J. S. Hall. Then the business session was resumed and prayer was offered by the moderator. Various committee reports on church mission boards were presented and approved, showing general interest and advance.

A committee, consisting of Rev. Drs. Todd, Withrow, Gunn and Hershey and Elders Ferris, McDonald and Nisbet was appointed to facilitate such union as may be feasible between the various branches of the Presbyterian church throughout New England.

Rev. Dr. Todd presented an interesting report of his work as a missionary, and it was heartily endorsed by the Presbytery.

JAMESTOWN.

Rev. W. D. Mackinnon Resigns as Pastor of Central Baptist Church, After Five Years' Service.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

At the Sunday morning service at the Central Baptist Church Rev. W. D. Mackinnon read the following letter of resignation:

"To the Members of the Central Baptist Church:

"Dear Brethren: Nearly five years ago I accepted your invitation to become your pastor. Assured that the time has now come for me to relinquish this trust, I hereby resign the pastorate of this church, the resignation to take effect on or before November 30, 1903. I deeply appreciate your constant kindness toward me, and I shall always remember with gratitude to our Heavenly Father the years of fellowship with you in the service of our blessed Lord. May He who has led still lead, and grant to us all the grace to follow.

"Yours in Christian love and service,
"W. D. Mackinnon."

The congregation learned of their pastor's intention to leave them with genuine regret. No action has yet been taken on the resignation. It is understood that Rev. Mr. Mackinnon has received a call from a church in Vermont, which he will accept. He was called to the Central Baptist Church November 9, 1898, and accepted the call early in December, entering upon his pastorate the first Sunday in January, 1899. He came from the Crown Hill Baptist Church at Nashua, N. H., of which he had been pastor for some time. Since coming to this town Rev. Mr. Mackinnon has made many friends, who will be sorry to learn that he is to leave town for another church.

Captain John Lee, who is in command of government tug Gen. G. K. Warren, will leave shortly with the boat for Washington, where she will now be stationed.

Mr. Samuel Smith is removing to his home on High street in Newport today.

COMPLETES HIS ARGUMENT.

Wayne MacVeagh Arrives in Paris on the Way to America.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Wayne MacVeagh, senior counsel for the United States, has arrived here from The Hague, having completed his argument before the Venezuelan arbitration tribunal. He will sail for New York October 10 from Cherbourg on American line steamer St. Louis.

Mr. MacVeagh regards the situation of the case as satisfactory and hopeful. The members of the court expressed satisfaction at the American view of the exalted character of the tribunal as representing the modern idea of the humane adjustment of international differences, instead of the old system of a resort to force. Counsel for the other countries, outside the blockading powers, will probably follow the general lines of the American argument. When the court re-assembles November 4 Judge Penfield and Minister Bowen will look after American and Venezuelan interests. It is expected that the further hearings will last about a fortnight.

CURES CATARRH.

"Hyomei the Most Wonderful Cure for Catarrh Ever Discovered," Says Jas. T. Wright.

Do not try to cure catarrh by taking drugs into the stomach; it cannot be cured in that manner. The only way in which this too common disease can be cured is through a direct application that will kill the bacilli of catarrh and prevent their growth.

Hyomei is the only known method of treatment that accomplishes this. It is the simplest, most pleasant, and the only absolute cure for catarrh that has ever been discovered.

Thousands of unsolicited testimonials have been received from the most prominent men and women in the country who have been cured by this remarkable remedy. Ministers, bankers, lawyers, even eminent physicians have given strong testimonials as to the remarkable powers of Hyomei to cure catarrh.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, consisting of an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei to last several weeks. This will effect a cure in ordinary cases, but for chronic and deep-seated cases of catarrh, longer use may be necessary, and then extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c. It is not alone the best (it might be called the only) method of curing catarrh, but it is also the most economical.

Jas. T. Wright has so much confidence in the power of Hyomei to cure catarrh, that he will for a limited time sell this medicine under his personal guarantee to refund the money if the purchasers can say that it did not help them.

AWAITED TRIAL 18 YEARS.

Death of Murderer, 93 Years Old, at Oakland, Cal.

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 7.—George Jones, who had been in the county jail for 18 years awaiting trial, has just died there, aged 93 years. He had been incarcerated since January 18, 1885, for the murder of Lorenzo Sutlo. He was convicted June 5, 1885, of the murder and sentenced to be hanged July 11. He succeeded in gaining a new trial. About the time the trial was to begin Jones was taken with a stroke of paralysis, and has never been able to leave his bed. Time and again the case was set for trial, but a continuance always was granted.

SHIP'S "HEEL" BROKEN.

Work on Battleship Massachusetts Likely to Require Several Months.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—It has been found at the New York navy yard that battleship Massachusetts, which ran on the rocks near Bar Harbor while on her way to Oyster Bay for the recent naval manoeuvres, not only broke some of the plates in her forward compartments but seriously damaged the after end of her keel. The ship's "heel," a large steel casting, was broken and a new one probably will have to be cast. The work is likely to require several months.

NOT JAMES R. KEENE.

J. O. Keene, American Trainer, Secures Control of Galteamore.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—It has been learned that J. O. Keene, the American trainer, now in Russia, and not James R. Keene, has secured control for a term of years of the great English-bred stallion Galteamore. The horse is the property of the Russian government which paid the English owners $100,000 for him after he had won the three great classics of the British turf—Derby, St. Ledger and 2,000 guinea stakes.

NEW ENGLAND'S RAILROADS.

The New Haven and Boston & Maine Serve by Far the Greater Part of This Section of the Country.

[Boston Transcript.]

Railroad consolidation has progressed so rapidly of recent years that today a change in the administrative head of one of the great systems is a matter of interest not only to stockholders but to communities and sections even. Each of the great systems has its well-defined "territory," in which if it is not actually supreme is very nearly so. There may be local lines not yet absorbed in any given territory, but they are not competitive and indeed are conveniences to the great systems. Here in New England there are two great systems, the New Haven and the Boston & Maine. There are lines not controlled by either of the systems and representing other interests, but they are not important enough to affect the truth of the general proposition.

The Vermont Central has its connection with the Sound; the Boston & Albany is the eastward prolongation of the Vanderbilt system; there is a line from the coalfields of which much is expected. But practically the railroad business of New England, considering affiliations that are more than traffic agreements, may be divided for the greater part of the region into two systems deserving to be characterized as great, the New Haven and the Boston & Maine. These serve by far the greater part of industrial New England, and it should be remembered that the Maine Central, though it preserves a distinct corporate identity, is really owned and controlled by the Boston & Maine. Taking, however, only lines formally leased, and excluding the Maine Central, the Boston & Maine's mileage operated is 2,281, while that of the New Haven is 2,037.

Such systems are tremendous factors in the development of the territory they serve, and the data of their operations are of interest to every one, since every one is more or less dependent on their ability to extend their facilities without diminishing their profits to a point where curtailment of train service becomes simple justice to investors. The annual reports of the two companies have recently been issued, and they demonstrate that each system is alive to its public responsibilities, and is giving good service at fair rates. No one can say that rates for passenger transportation are excessive, in view of the fact that the rate on the Boston & Maine was 1.77 cents per mile, and on the New Haven 1.73 cents.

It is worth noting that each system carried more passengers than in the previous year, the increase in the case of the New Haven being about 5,000,000, or almost nine per cent. These results indicate that trolley competition was not so severely felt as in previous years. Perhaps the novelty is wearing off the trolley, and the electric railroads are settling down toward what may be deemed their normal carrying facilities.

An important change in the administration of the New Haven is shortly to be carried out when Mr. Charles S. Mellen succeeds Mr. John M. Hall as president. Mr. Mellen is a practical railroad man, and the field in which he will be called to labor is familiar to him. He virtually simply returns to the New Haven in a higher position than he held before, and with New England, its people and its way he is thoroughly acquainted, having begun his professional career on one of the lines to the northward of Boston, subsequently identifying himself with the management of the old "Lowell System." Mr. Mellen is a very capable railroad man in the prime of his powers, and is likely to be popular with the patrons of the New Haven, and in these days popularity counts for a good deal, considering how wide are the ramifications of corporate interests and corporate sensibilities.

Rumor says that Mr. Mellen's election will mark the strengthening of the Pennsylvania interest in the New Haven system, which may well be the case without affecting the community served otherwise than for good.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The work of raising the roadbed three feet, in the valley on Honyman Hill road, is being pushed. A layer of earth is now being put on as a first coating. When the necessary depth is reached the roadbed will be macadamized. The work of macadamizing the roadbed from the Miantenuck Golf grounds north is nearly completed. The roller now being at work there, the piece of road south of Turner road and the golf grounds is being filled with the foundation stones. On the West road the foundation stone is about all filled in and crushed stone will be put on in a short time.

The Paradise Club meets with Mrs. Lyman H. Barker on Paradise avenue; subject, "Some of Shakespeare's Heroines," with selections and quotations from Shakespeare by the members.

The Oliphant Club meets with Mrs. Grace M. Brown on Union street Friday afternoon, instead of with Mrs. Linnie Brown, as reported a few days since.

A somewhat peculiar theft occurred recently on the premises of Mr. R. Jason Grinnell on Vaucluse avenue. Two bicycles owned by his son and daughter, which were left leaning against the hot house at dusk, were taken out of the yard. Both wheels were removed from the boy's bicycle and the frame thrown behind the hedge at the Arnold villa. The wheels of the girl's bicycle were taken off, both tires removed, and the wheels and frame also thrown behind the hedge. The wheels of her bicycle being a bright orange, it was thought that the thief probably was fearful of their being detected, and so contented himself with stripping off the tires. The boy's wheel is considered a total wreck. The owners have a partial suspicion of a former workman and are on the lookout for a clew to the robber.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Mrs. Eleanor Carr, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Thales Tallman, Monday morning, in her eighty-third year, was the widow of Job R. Carr and daughter of the late Richard and Mary Fish of Tiverton, and was one of three children, her two sisters, Mrs. Ruth Beckley and Miss Lucy Fish, having died many years ago. Her wedded life extended over a period of 40 years, her husband dying 26 years ago. Five of their six children are living, Mrs. Asa Caggeshall, Mr. Charles Carr, Mrs. W. T. Tallman, Mrs. Robert H. Manchester, Mr. Alfred Carr, their second son, Mr. W. H. Carr, having passed away many years ago. Mrs. Carr was an estimable woman, had been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for many years and was very regular in her attendance at church and Sunday school as long as she was able to go out. It was while cutting flowers for her pastor that she was attacked two years ago with the illness from which she never again left the house, or her room since last July. During all this time she has been given the most devoted attention by her daughter and son-in-law.

Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Steele are entertaining guests from out of town.

The crowd which gathered in Fall River, Tuesday, to see the Honourable Artillery Company of London is said to have been unprecedented. So blocked were the streets with a living mass of humanity that the electric cars had to give it precedence and wait for an opportunity to move. This delayed the Island cars more than a half hour.

LORD CRAWFORD'S ANCESTOR FOUGHT WITH ARNOLD.

Lord Crawford, who is one of the most useful and learned members of the English peerage, has just presented to the British Museum in London a wonderful collection of several thousand specimens of birds, fishes, reptiles, butterflies and other insects, besides skulls and skeletons galore, secured in his recent long cruises on board his steam yacht Valhalla, which was undertaken for the purpose of visiting the most remote portions of the Pacific and Indian oceans—places, indeed, that lie out of the beaten track of the ordinary sailing vessels. Lord Crawford took with him several naturalists and other scientific companions, and his cruise, which extended over a period of nearly two years, has, from a scientific point of view, been the most remarkable thing of the kind since the famous cruise of the Challenger.

Lord Crawford's family, the Lindsays, of which he is the chief, is one of the most ancient in Scotland, and a few years ago he celebrated the five hundredth anniversary of the creation of his earldom of Crawford, Sir David, thirteenth Lord of Lindsay, "a valiant knight" having been "created, proclaimed and belted Earl of Crawford at Perth April 21, 1398, his lordship being at the same time erected into a regality." Since then there have been 25 earls of Crawford, the present one being the twenty-sixth, and it is curious that from the earliest times they have all had some nicknames, the second earl having been called "The Consanguineous" by Henry VI. The fourth earl was known as the "Tiger," the ninth was surnamed the "Interpolated Earl," the twentieth was "the Gallant" and was the first colonel of the famous Black Watch Regiment. It was one of the present Lord Crawford's ancestors, the twenty-third Earl of Crawford and sixth Earl of Balcarres, who received 13 bullets through his coat at the battle of Ticonderoga. George III introduced him to the American General Arnold.

"Ah! the traitor?" he asked. Whereupon a challenge from Arnold ensued.

The earl consented to a meeting on the field of honor. Arnold missed him, whereupon the earl walked away.

"Why don't you fire?" cried Arnold.

"At you?" the peer exclaimed contemptuously over his shoulder. "No, sir, I leave you to the executioner."

TOO MUCH MEDICINE.

The system continually wronged by over-eating and over-drinking, and the debilitated condition aggravated by dosing with harsh nauseous drugs and medicines.

The excessive and indiscriminate use of medicines, in these days, cannot be too strongly condemned. The food you eat if properly digested, is all the tonic you need.

Only common sense is needed. The food must be digested and the bowels must not be allowed to clog. Preserve your health by preventing these conditions.

Constipation surely leads to indigestion, biliousness, etc., and these conditions when neglected affect the condition of the blood, debilitate the system, rendering it susceptible to more serious ailments, and less able to resist such attacks.

If your stomach has been abused by over-eating, weakened by drugs or sickness, you won't have to stop eating or diet yourself. All you need is something that will aid the stomach in its functions and relieve it from being constantly irritated by undigested food. The purest and simplest remedy for this purpose are the California Prune Wafers, a natural dissolvent made from the pure, fresh fruit, a general laxative and sweetener of the stomach—no other medicine is necessary.

When you are Bilious, it is a sign that your Liver is out of order, and the poisonous bile, instead of being excreted from the body through the intestines, is taken up in the blood. As a result of biliousness, the entire system suffers. There are griping pains in the Abdomen, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation, Pain in the Right Side, and sometimes the skin becomes sallow and yellowish, rough and itchy. Take two or three California Prune Wafers after meals, and in a short time your liver will be performing its proper function, driving the bile from the system. Use nothing but California Prune Wafers—no other medicine is necessary.

California Prune Wafers if taken as directed, will positively cure the most obstinate cases of indigestion, Torpid Liver, Constipation, Biliousness, etc., so as to stay cured.

CALIFORNIA PRUNE WAFERS do the work without the slightest pain, gripe or nausea. They produce natural and easy movement of the bowels, are easy to take, pure and healthful.

They are nature's own remedy, better than pill or purge, better than cathartic teas that gripe and nauseate, better than anything for moving the bowels, because CALIFORNIA PRUNE WAFERS are a NATURAL DISSOLVENT and not a purge, acting gently and naturally on the contents of the Bowels, producing easy movement. They regulate the Liver and Stomach, cleanse the System and Purify the Blood, cure all Bowel Troubles, Bad Breath, Bad Blood, Wind on the Stomach, Foul Mouth, Headache, Pimples and Dizziness, A Liver Tonic from Natures Laboratory. 100 Wafers for 25cts.

California Prune Wafers

Extracted from the Fruit, Sweet and Pure
Easy to Take and Warranted to Cure

Biliousness, Constipation, Indigestion and all Liver Troubles

100 WAFERS, 25 CENTS

YOU CAN EAT WHAT YOU PLEASE if you follow each meal with a CALIFORNIA PRUNE WAFER, which quickly dissolves the most indigestible food, and helps to carry it through and out of the system in a gentle and healthful manner, without the slightest pain, griping or nausea.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7, Wall Street—The stock market opened firm, with Amalgamated Copper at 41⅜, Atchison 63⅝, Baltimore & Ohio 74½, Brooklyn Transit 33½, Erie 27⅝, Erie first preferred 67, Louisville 98⅜, Manhattan 131, Missouri Pacific 89⅝, New York Central 117¾, Norfolk & Western 56½, Ontario & Western 20¾, Pennsylvania 118⅜, Reading 47⅝, Rock Island 25, St. Paul 137½, Southern Pacific 42, Southern 18¾, Union Pacific 71⅛, United States Steel 17½ to 17¾, United States Steel preferred 65⅝ and 65¾, Wabash preferred 31½.

10—The local market showed a considerable degree of firmness at the opening, which was attributed to the improved tone of the London market, where United States Steel common was quoted ½ per cent higher despite the dividend reduction. International stocks averaged ½ per cent higher, with the improvement even more marked in a few of the specialties. United States Steel preferred was quoted at 65⅝ and 65¾ for 3,000 shares, compared with 64¾, yesterday's close. The common brought 17½ and 17¾ for 6,000 shares, against 17⅝, yesterday's close.

11—Heavy selling of the United States steel stocks on the opening bulge in prices caused a setback to 16½ and 65, respectively, for the common and preferred. Amalgamated also made a rapid decline to 39, or two points below last night's final price. The liquidation of these specialties caused a relapse in railroad stocks and Reading and Pennsylvania fell a good fraction under yesterday. Opening advancements in all other stocks were generally cancelled.

Noon—Money on call, easy, at 2½; prime mercantile paper, 6½. United States Steel dipped again to 16¼ and Amalgamated Copper fell 2½. The rest of the market was unsettled. Losses of 1 to 1¾ were made by Reading, St. Louis, Southwestern, Kansas City Southern, Chicago Terminal preferred, Tennessee Coal and Hocking Coal. American Car lost 1 and the preferred 3 in spite of the declaration of the regular dividend. Kansas City & Southern preferred declined 3, Des Moines & Fort Dodge preferred 5 and Central of New Jersey 7¾. United States Steel preferred and Erie were firm and inclined to rally. The market hardened in sympathy. The United States Steel 2ds and 3s opened ⅜ higher, lost the gain and then made some recovery. Bonds generally were steady.

RHODE ISLAND BAPTISTS.

Work of the Year in Various Departments Reviewed at the State Convention.

The Rhode Island Baptist State Convention opened yesterday morning in the Central Baptist Church, Providence. The convention was called to order by the president, Rev. L. L. Henson, D. D., and devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Robert Cameron of the Fourth Baptist Church followed. The annual sermon was then delivered by Rev. Dr. George W. Rigler of the Second Baptist Church, East Providence.

After a solo by Professor B. P. Stout the election of president of the convention was in order. This resulted in the choosing of Rev. L. L. Henson to serve another year.

The address of welcome was then made by Rev. John R. Brown, pastor of the Central Baptist Church. Rev. Mr. Brown extended a cordial welcome to the visiting delegates, and said he hoped they would all come next year. Rev. F. Rector, D. D., vice president of the Convention, responded, thanking Rev. Mr. Brown for his cordial welcome.

The remainder of the session was devoted to the reading of reports, and the appointment of committees. Rev. J. T. Beckley, D. D., of this city being a member of the committee on reports.

The afternoon session opened with a devotional service, conducted by Rev. Edwin A. Hulbert. Following this was a series of ten-minute addresses on "Work Among the Peoples of Foreign Speech." Rev. E. C. Ramette, the first speaker, briefly outlined and described the work carried on among the French inhabitants of the state. Rev. A. E. Lindberg of Boston spoke of the work among the Swedes of Boston. Referring to his work among the Italians of Providence, Rev. H. M. Klug, D. D., said that during the past year 46 Italians had been baptised.

Rev. W. L. Swan of Westerly welcomed the new pastors who have settled in the state during the past year, and in behalf of the new pastors, Rev. John Finch responded to the welcome in a few appropriate words.

For the evangelistic committee Secretary W. H. Wilson presented the first annual report. He said that the committee had met 54 times during the year, the meetings being equally distributed about Providence and other cities and towns in the state. He spoke of the success of the tent meetings held during the summer months, by means of which thousands, he said, have become Christians. The financial report showed a balance of $52.73 in the treasury. By request Professor B. P. Stout spoke of his work among the workingmen in the various large manufacturing establishments in Providence.

After a motion offered by Rev. Mr. Bromley a resolution was passed authorizing the chair to appoint a committee of seven to carry on the work inaugurated by the evangelistic committee. The chair reappointed the same committee as last year, Rev. Frank Rector taking the place of Rev. Mr. Bromley, who declined further service.

"The Evangelism of the Year" was the theme for a number of ten-minute speeches. "The Work of the Coming Year" was then discussed by Rev. L. L. Henson, D. D.

The committee on place and preacher offered its report recommending that the next Convention be held in connection with the meeting of the Broadway Baptist Association, and that Rev. W. L. Swan of Westerly be appointed to deliver the annual sermon. The report was received and the recommendation passed.

The committee on nominations presented the following report, which was accepted, and the list of nominations was adopted: Officers for the year ending October 6, 1904: President, Rev. L. L. Henson, D. D., Providence; vice president, Rev. F. J. Rector, D. D., Pawtucket; secretary and field secretary, Rev. J. Stewart, Providence; treasurer, Henry B. Dean, Providence; board of managers, H. M. Klug, D. A. Patt, G. B. Peck, J. V. Osterhout, E. Bromley, T. C. Gleason, E. A. Herring, E. Holyoke, W. L. Wood, S. T. Douglas, G. W. Rigler, H. W. Watjen, D. W. Faunce, W. H. Waite, W. T. Green, A. B. McCrillis, W. L. Swan, W. H. Lane, H. F. Brown, E. L. Lindh, M. D. Fuller, R. Cameron, W. B. Wilson, J. T. Beckley, John R. Brown, Fred L. Smith, B. T. Livingstone, C. B. Reynolds, E. A. Hatner; finance committee, C. F. Wilcox, F. W. Hartwell, T. E. Bartlett, B. F. Arnold, H. F. Horton; auditors, F. W. Hartwell, C. H. Child.

Rev. A. C. Dixon, D. D., of Boston was the principal speaker at the evening's session, and the brilliant Southern orator in his address on "Soul Winning" held the close attention of a large audience throughout.

SHERMAN—HALL.

There was a pretty wedding in the chapel of Emmanuel Church last evening, when in the presence of a large gathering of friends Mr. Millard F. Sherman, jr., and Miss Tillie Peckham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hall, were married by Rev. E. H. Porter, D. D. The bride looked pretty in a gown of white point d'esprit trimmed with white satin ribbon, and a long veil with orange blossoms. She carried a handsome shower bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Cora Sherman, sister of the groom, wore a gown of white lawn over pink silk, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. Joseph H. Hall performed the duties of best man and the ushers were Messers. Fred H. Scholl and Stephen Chase.

After the service at the chapel a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Extension street, the Howard orchestra furnishing music for the wedding supper and afterwards for dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman will reside at 31 Extension street. Many handsome presents were received, among them being a china tea set, given by the firm of Caswell, Massey & Co., of which the groom is an employe.

A strong stick, like a broom handle, with one end cut into a deep notch, will be found useful for hanging pictures. Generally this process involves a step-ladder and much climbing up and down before satisfaction is attained. During housecleaning and other cleaning days pictures can be taken down, cleaned and replaced with the aid of the stick.

A resolution was passed fixing the salary of the mayor for the ensuing year at $1,200, and that of the city treasurer at $2,000, for his own work and all clerical assistance.

The committee on the tunnel providing sewerage for the North Kay street district reported that the city engineer had been directed to prepare plans, but that the committee was not yet ready to report the probable cost for definite plans.

The committee on public property reported, recommending that safety steps be placed on the front entrance of the City Hall, for safety this winter, at a cost of $125. The report was received and the accompanying resolution was passed:

The committee on streets and highways reported, recommending that a pier be built at the end of Sycamore street, at a cost of $750, to be an additional appropriation, and that DeWolf street be graded and macadamized, and curbed on the south side for 500 feet, at a cost of $1,500. The report was received, and in the Board of Aldermen the two resolutions were passed, Mr. Bliss objecting to the extra appropriation. In the Common Council the DeWolf street resolution was passed, but the other was lost, Mr. Ritchie moved to lay it on the table. He saw no necessity for spending $750 for this and paying six per cent interest on it when the pier could not be used before next May or June. The motion to lay on the table was lost, 6 to 8, as follows:

Ayes—Councilmen Ritchie, Wright, Willar, Austin, Milne, J. J. McMartin—6.

Nays—President Gladding, Councilmen Kerr, Rogers, Shanahan, Pember, Butler, Morgan, J. J. Martin—8.

Mr. Rogers moved to concur with the aldermen, which was lost, 7 to 7, Councilman Pember changing to the other side.

Quarterly reports of H. C. Johnson, field driver, and of the chief engineer of the fire department, showing loss by fire of $7,240.45 and cost of the department of $8,572.24, were received.

The report of the street commissioner for five weeks ending September 26, showing expenditures for labor of $12,651.48, for material of $1,036.57, total $16,087.99, and the monthly report of the inspector of nuisances, were also received.

A resolution was passed, directing the committee on streets and highways to advertise in the newspapers for any granolithic curb or sidewalk ordered by the Council and to award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder.

The Board of Health presented the following communication:

Gentlemen: The board of health is compelled to request for its use this year a further appropriation of $2,100. The necessity for this increased expenditure has arisen almost wholly from expenses in connection with small pox, of which one case occurred in the latter part of December, 1902, and with diphtheria, which has been so prevalent as to amount nearly to an epidemic. The case of small pox cost about $100. Antitoxin and disinfectants, which judging from expenditures in previous years were estimated to cost $325, have already cost $1,350 and will probably cost from $325 to $350 more. Bacteriological work, a new and very necessary branch, which was estimated to cost $800, will cost about $1,200. Owing to delays in the construction of the hospital the board was compelled to pay rent for one month longer than was estimated. These increased expenditures are:

Small pox,	$100.00.
Antitoxin and disinfectants,	1,358.34
Bacteriological work,	400.00
Rent,	41.66
Reduction of previous estimates,	200.00
	$2,100.00

The board considers the expenditure for antitoxin, disinfectants and bacteriological work as absolutely necessary for the health of the city.

The communication was received, and an accompanying resolution, making an additional appropriation of $2,100 for the board of health, was referred to the finance committee.

On recommendation of the Board of Health the following ordinance was passed without discussion.

An ordinance in amendment of chapter 27 of the city ordinances entitled "Public Schools."

It is ordained by the City Council as follows:

Section 1—Section 2 of Chapter 27 of the city ordinances, entitled "Public Schools," is hereby amended by the repealing of said section and the substitution of the following in place thereof.

Section 2—No teacher, pupil, or other person shall enter or attend any public school in this city, without the permission of the Board of Health, if he or she resides in any house in which a case of small pox, variloid, scarlet fever, or diphtheria has occurred.

It was explained that this amendment leaves to the discretion of the Board of Health whether or not the occupants of a house where there is sickness, shall be quarantined two weeks. The ordinance formerly made this detention compulsory.

A petition was received from John S. Langley, calling attention to the dangerous condition of the building on Franklin street, next west of his property. Part of the wall on the east side had fallen out, and part of the second floor had fallen. The owner's attention had been called to this matter, but nothing had been done. The petitioner spoke to the mayor, who referred him to the inspector of buildings. He wrote him, but had heard nothing from him. The building is dangerous and would be particularly exposed in case of fire. In the Common Council it was suggested that the petition be referred to the inspector of buildings, with authority to take such action as he deemed best. The inspector had no power in the premises unless the Council gave it to him.

The City Solicitor was called in, and said that the city and state laws are such that he would like to look them over before he gave an opinion. After looking over the laws and ordinances he reported that he found nothing that covered this case. The Council, however, had been authorized to pass such ordinances in relation to buildings as it deemed proper; and he suggested that an ordinance could be drawn to cover such cases and could come up at a special session, which would probably be held after the street railroad hearing. The petition was then referred to the ordinance committee. In the Board of Aldermen Mr. Bliss suggested that something should be done at once, and City Solicitor Brown told him what he had told the council. The aldermen then concurred. Councilman Martin said the owner, P. H. Horgan, promised to make the place safe at once.

Petitions of Patrick Nolan and others, for curbing and macadamizing Middleton avenue between Bowery street and Berkeley avenue; of M. C. Callahan and others, to have a granolithic curb laid on both sides of Congdon avenue; of Howard & Co. for a bituliithic pavement on Bellevue avenue, from Kay street to Bowery street, and of John E. Davis and others, for a sewer on Tew's court, were referred to the committee on streets and highways.

Petitions in relation to over-assessment of taxes were referred to the assessors of taxes. Ann Roche said a lot on the Paran Stevens plat, for which she paid $100, was taxed for $600; James J. Coagan said "Whitehall," for which he paid at auction $42,000, is taxed for $97,000, and James Matson said his assessment on Morton avenue was increased $400 over last year.

The committee on streets and highways reported back to the Board of Aldermen the petition of John J. Garvey and others, for the condemnation as a public highway of Underwood court. The petition was laid on the table to allow the city solicitor to examine the matter and prepare the necessary papers ordering notice on the proposed condemnation.

The council at 9:07 adjourned to meet Tuesday evening, November 3.

THE BELLEVUE AVENUE PAVEMENT PETITION.

The petition presented to the City Council last evening for a pavement on Bellevue avenue is as follows:

The petitioners respectfully call the attention of your honorable body to the deplorable condition of Bellevue avenue from Kay street to Bowery street during dry or rainy weather, when either clouds of dust fill the stores and ruin goods or the mud makes driving anything but a pleasure. The undersigned, therefore, respectfully pray your honorable body that a permanent bituliithic pavement, the same as is now laid in Broadway and Spring street, be laid in Bellevue avenue from Kay street to Bowery street.

THE ARTILLERY OFF.

Great Crowds on the Streets to See the Parade and on the Wharf to See the Honourables.

The Puritan's trip down the Sound last night will be a memorable one in the minds of many people, particularly of many Newporters. The steamer carried three notable military commands, the Honourable Artillery of London, the Ancient and Honourables of Boston and the Newport Artillery, the oldest active military organization in the United States. In addition to all these men in uniform, there was of course the regular passenger traffic. The freight deck of the steamer was thoroughly cleaned, and by the aid of a profusion of bunting turned into a sort of reception hall for the military. It must have been a great night on the Sound, for the Ancient and Honourables have established records both here and abroad.

The Newport company was en route for the Old Guards' fair in the metropolis, and thus will have the added pleasure of appearing with that notable organization. Another cause for rejoicing on the part of the local command is that it appears for the first time in the new regulation United States artillery uniform and is probably the first organization outside of the regulars to wear it. To still further complete the display, they carried the Artillery band from Fort Adams, recruited to 30 members and all appearing in the new regulation uniform.

A large crowd gathered on the streets to see the company depart and a short parade was made, the route of march being well illuminated with red fire. With the company were a number of guests who did not parade to the boat but swelled the party to about 100 persons, who will enjoy a three days' outing. A host of people went down the wharf to give the command a rousing parting and also to catch a glimpse of some of the visiting soldiers from England, and the scene there was a gay and noisy one.

Newport was well represented at the parade in Fall River yesterday. A number of parties were made up for the trip, while individuals went to the Spindle City with an idea that they were the only ones going, but instead found familiar faces at every turn in the crowd. After the parade almost every one had an idea that they would take the first train or car back, but many changed their minds when they found that after spending the afternoon in the crowds they were to be crowded all the way home. To add to the discomforts of travel there was an open piece of track on the island road at the state line, which caused transferring and consequent delays in the running time of the cars.

A New York despatch says: The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery Company of London, arrived here by steamer this morning. Waiting for them, with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and its guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, to West Point. Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream, and with the united bands of both companies playing proceeded up the river. The Newport Artillery Company, which had lined up in company front on the pier, while the Boston and London organizations were embarking, then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston companies on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

DEATH OF WARREN WEYMOUTH.

Mr. Warren Weymouth died last night at the hospital, where he had been for two weeks. He had been in poor health several months and finally went to the hospital when his illness assumed a serious nature. Mr. Weymouth had been a resident of Newport for 20 years, having been employed in the wood working mill of Swinburne, Peckham & Co. during practically all that time.

He was a veteran of the Civil war, having enlisted from Maine, his native state. He entered the service November 6, 1862, as private in Company E, Thirteenth Maine regiment, and received his final discharge August 20, 1865, as corporal in Company B, Thirtieth Maine regiment, at the close of the war. He joined Gen. G. K. Warren Post, Grand Army of the Republic, November 15, 1889, and was it commander in 1896, having since been a member of important committees and an active worker in the post. The funeral tomorrow afternoon, will be conducted by Warren Post.

DOZEN LOTS SOLD.

Prices at Bliss Road Park Range from Seven to Eleven Cents—Deeds Soon to be Passed.

Yesterday's land sale was attended by a materially smaller crowd than that on the opening day, but the management says that the results were better so far as disposing of lots. A dozen lots were reported sold, at prices ranging from 7 to 11 cents, which is about the figures which many anticipated would be secured in that locality. The most undesirable lot, as the sellers looked at it, was put up with a plan as bait, and was sold for 10½ cents. It is the last lot on the left-hand side and contains a boulder, the only one on the plat.

It is now claimed that the unfavorable impression which was gained from Monday's sale was made necessary by several undesirable and persistent bidders, but that the plat was protected. It is also claimed that several who on that day made bids, but found the prices soaring above them, have been able to secure their choice at private sale. It is also understood that a very fair proportion of the lots have now been sold, and the passing of deeds will be begun. Had it not been for the effort of certain people to secure lots Monday, it is believed that now a large majority of the land would have been disposed of.

The gift hunters were of course strongly represented yesterday, and as the day before there was a stream of burden bearers returning from the park.

SUCCESS OF "THE SILVER SLIPPER."

The Opera House was crowded to its utmost seating capacity last evening, on the presentation of the London musical success, "The Silver Slipper," by Owen Hall, W. H. Risque and Leslie Stuart, the authors of "Floradora," and the entertainment was worthy of the large audience. It was a metropolitan production, with elaborate and handsome stage settings, beautiful costumes and a capable company, both principals and chorus. The music is bright and catchy, the most popular numbers being the sextette, "Come, Little Girl," "You and Me," by Ann Tyrrell and Cyril Scott; the topical song, "I'd be Satisfied with Life," by Sam Collins and the student boys; "Two Eyes of Blue" and "Tessie, You are the Only, Only, Only," by Joseph Welch, and the Champagne Dance and the Slow Waltz by the English dancing girls. The play has more than the usual plot of musical comedy, and the songs were introduced with some show of reason.

Sam Collins was decidedly funny as Hensch the showman, Cyril Scott was particularly good as Berkeley Shallamar, Joseph Welch was capital as Donald Gregor of the Royal Navy, and his clear, strong tenor voice was heard to excellent advantage in several songs. Miss Ann Tyrell was charming as Wrenne, in personality, acting and singing, and Carolyn Gordon was capital as Stella. The Champagne Dance is a decided novelty, and evidently pleased. Throughout the play the audience was enthusiastic and showed by its frequent and hearty applause that it knew a good thing and was making the most of it.
